'L'Harmonie' celebrates several genres of music

While people may have different tastes in music, everyone can appreciate music in some way.

Everyone should be able to

The cast of "L'Harmonie: The Miracle of Music" is made up of performers from all over the country.

relate to "L'Harmonie: The Miracle of Music," a musical stage show at the Center Stage Theatre, said Dave Edmundson, general manager of Center Stage.

Well, maybe not everyone. "There's not a bunch of the hip-hop rap, so (the show) doesn't grab the interest of 14-year-olds," said Edmundson.

However, "L'Harmonie," which revisits musical styles from the 1920s to the present, is a "family-oriented" musical review, said Edmundson. While people 20 and older are more likely to relate to the material, children enjoy the show, too, he said.

"L'Harmonie" was written specifically for the Center Stage Theatre and designed to be a tourist attraction. The stage show debuted in 2002 with a cast of eight singers and dancers as well as an eight-piece orchestra.

Covering such musical styles as Dixieland, country, pop, soul and disco, not to mention such phenomena as the British Invasion and American Bandstand, "L'Harmonie" is a comprehensive review of American music.

The singers and dancers, many of whom have worked for years on cruise lines or in theme parks, came from all over to audition for the show.

Center Stage presents "L'Harmonie: The Miracle of Music" two times per day, six days per week. Call (800) 47-STAGE for details.
