

Marina life FROM PAGE 27

trips usually come in the form of brief day sails on East Bay, but the Hartleys try to make at least one major voyage each year to some location like the North Channel of Lake Huron.

When they first began thinking about living on the boat, the Hartleys wondered if they'd have the fortitude for such a rootless lifestyle. Could they enjoy themselves without having a permanent house somewhere?

"We decided that the home is where the family is — and since we're the family, this is home," said Jill. "Last year we even talked about getting a place in Arizona or Florida, but then we got back on the road and said, 'No, we're really not ready to settle down yet.' We like it this way."
