ed settling down and having families.”

Sometimes a band just has to take a breather. The Grand Rapids band, Domestic Problems, a northern Michigan favorite, decided this year to take a sabbatical. And the popular Jill Jack Band from Detroit has broken up — at least temporarily — while members take care of their family lives.

“A lot of these guys, summer is when they make all their money, and I'm sure it's been years since they've seen a Cherry Festival,” said Scott. “Working all night and sleeping all day isn't fun forever.”

Even a band whose members really enjoy partying all summer can dream of more enjoyable ways to do it. Ferris, for instance, dreams of getting a real bus to travel in style.

“We've traveled over 27 states and 180 cities over the years,” he said. “But to be comfortable and not in a five-passenger Ford with 12 guys would be nice.”
